

The Role of TNI in Mobile-Friendly Learning

Learners today are becoming mobile, and workplaces are witnessing an increase in the demand for mobile-friendly, on-demand learning resources that are curated and presented at the point of need.

With the focus on offering learner-driven content, training managers now need to invest in developing training programs that are directly aligned with their organization's business goals.

Employees are seeking learning that offers immediate solutions to the tasks at hand.

And to get this spot-on:

Start paying attention to employees' actual needs

Implement real-time identification methods

Accurately align learning with their training needs

To learn more about Training Needs Identification, download this eBook on eLearning Trends for 2019.